

Michael Glassner
Chief Operating Officer
Donald J. Trump for President, Inc.
725 5th Ave.
New York, NY 10022

March 9, 2020

Jack Dorsey
Founder and CEO
Twitter
1355 Market St #900
San Francisco, CA 94103

Vijaya Gadde
Global Head of Legal, Policy, and Trust and Safety
Twitter
1355 Market St #900
San Francisco, CA 94103

Carlos Monje
Director of Public Policy and Philanthropy
Twitter
1355 Market St #900
San Francisco, CA 94103

Dear Mr. Dorsey, Ms. Gadde, and Mr. Monje,

On Sunday, March 8, Twitter applied its new “manipulated media” label to a 100% real, 100% authentic, 100% unedited video of Joe Biden saying, “We cannot win this re-election. Excuse me. We can only re-elect Donald Trump[.]”

Understandably, the Biden campaign has a strategic interest in intimidating social media companies into suppressing true and embarrassing video evidence of Joe Biden’s continued inability to communicate coherently—a sad truth that has been publicly noted by Democrats and media figures alike.

Still, it appears that many people employed by Big Tech corporations in Silicon Valley are assisting the Biden campaign by instituting a special ‘Biden protection rule’ that effectively censors and silences legitimate political speech Biden’s campaign and its supporters do not like.

In order for American elections to remain free and fair, it is critical that the Biden campaign be held to the same standard it is demanding apply to others.

Therefore, Donald J. Trump for President, Inc., is formally requesting that Twitter apply its new “manipulated media” label to a doctored and deceptively edited video tweeted by the Biden campaign less than a week ago. This Biden campaign video manipulates audio and video of President Trump in order to mislead Americans and give a false impression.

Video clips presented deceptively and out of context by the Biden campaign include:

- Two separate videos of President Trump spliced together to fabricate a quote and give viewers the false impression that he called the coronavirus a “hoax.” This misinformation was previously fact-checked as false by a member of the non-partisan International Fact-Checking Network.
- Two separate videos spliced together to give viewers the false impression that President Trump referred to white nationalists carrying torches as “very fine people.” In fact, 49 seconds after President Trump said those words, he said, “and I’m not talking about the neo-Nazis and the white nationalists, because they should be condemned totally.” As one CNN anchor said, “he’s not saying that the neo-Nazis and white supremacists are very fine people[.]”
- A video from the 2016 campaign, before Donald Trump was elected, saying, “the American Dream is dead[.]” The Biden campaign edited the clip to cut out the second part of Trump’s sentence. What then-candidate Trump actually said in 2015 was this: “Sadly, the American dream is dead, but if I get elected president I will bring it back bigger and better and stronger than ever before, and we will make America great again.”

Of course, this is not the first time the Biden campaign has used editing tricks to manipulate video and feed misinformation to the American people. If Twitter is not seeking to protect Joe Biden, we urge it to correct its apparent oversight and apply its standards equally across the board.

Michael Glassner
Chief Operating Officer
Donald J. Trump for President, Inc.